Savannah Golf Club
1661 East President St.

Do you know what to do if the media comes calling at your office or jobsite? Particularly in a "crisis" situation, but at other times too, knowing how to deal with the media can make a tremendous difference in how you and your company are portrayed in the public eye – and the impact on your bottom line can be profound. In this enjoyable and entertaining session, you'll see the good and the bad of dealing with the media.

You'll discover ways to develop a good working relationship with media, and you'll learn how to handle media should you ever have a crisis situation develop on one of your projects.

Our speaker, Steve Hudson, is former editor of Dixie Contractor Magazine, and is a Communications Consultant specializing in the construction industry.

Mark your calendar now for these additional membership opportunities. For details and registration flyers, visit www.agcga.org.
