

William (Will) Graddick joined AGC Georgia at the beginning of 2024. He is a graduate of Buford High School and now resides in Atlanta. He graduated from the University of North Georgia with a degree in political science and earned his Juris Doctorate at Mercer University's School of Law in 2023. Will previously worked for the Georgia Mining Association and various law firms.

During his free time, Will enjoys watching Arsenal F.C. soccer, Atlanta Braves baseball, and Georgia Bulldogs football. He also likes bass fishing, reading, and spending time with family and friends. He is quick to share that he attributes all of his success to his amazing and supportive family.

Will has an eclectic taste in music and his favorites are Frank Sinatra and Chicago. A quote he tries to live by is from Marcus Aurelius, who said: "When you arise in the morning, think of what a precious privilege it is to be alive, to breathe, to think, to enjoy, to love."
